ARIZONA NEWS OF INTEREST

The Arizona Baptist convention has convened in the appointment of Rev. D. C. Williams of Globe as Sunday school missionary for Arizona. Mr. Williams has been acting as superintendent of religious education for the territory during the past six years.

For the purpose of buying a ranch to stock a new farm near El Paso, William Kenna, an expert from Empire and South Africa, is in the Salt River valley. He expects to purchase between 25 and 50 birds as a start and perhaps to come back for more later on.

Manned Padillas of Phoenix reported to the sheriff's office Tuesday morning that he had held up Monday night on Central avenue and robbed of $250. He was unable to give a good description of the man who robbed him and the man has not been caught.

Leaving from a window of a street car of the Phoenix railway while returning from the circus grounds Monday evening, Vernon Davis, 18, 1934, was seriously injured when his team came in contact with one of the company's poles, situated along the car tracks on Pierce street.

Attorney General John R. Wright is said to have made public the following opinion: "In my opinion qualified electors registered in one county can transfer their registration and vote in the county in which they now reside."

Hon. Mark Smith spoke at Williams Monday night to an enthusiastic audience, and will speak at Flagstaff tonight, Jerome on Saturday, Prescott next Monday and go to campagne in Maricopa county. He spoke of Kingman in company with Jessie Lang and Lauer Colby, they dividing time and expense of the meeting. Mr. Smith is making his canvass on his own responsibility, making no contribution and determined not to break up a coalition between other candidates against his interest.

It is expected that the work of construction on the territorial highway from Wilcox down through the Sulphur Springs valley to Douglas will be started during the early future. Petitions have been signed in Douglas, Wilcox and other points in the valley and have been forwarded to the board of control.

GET YOUR DIVORCE WHILE YOU WAIT

Special Service Provided By Kansas City Court for Those Who Want to Get Unhitched and Haven't Time to Linger.

If you are a skilled teacher and want a divorce call off the courthouse on Saturday if you don't need to miss a day in school, says the Kansas City Star. If you are a shopgirl and want to break off a worthless husband, call off during the lunch hour and make your wishes known.

If you want to attend a bargain sale at one of the big stores on the day your divorce suit is set, just urge your attorney to whisper last feet to the judge and he may agree to hear your case at once. Otherwise, you may have to wait in the courtroom for a day or two, waiting until your case is heard.

Seventy-five hundred applicants for divorce and more than one hundred women witnesses sat in Judge Portfield's courtroom all day yesterday waiting for their cases to be reached. They went away disappointed—most of them—but they will be on hand again today to take up the fight.

Just a Minute, Please, Judge. Some of them lectured and lectured the law a day. The rule of matrimony had become tedious and they wanted to be free. Priests of Parochial schools are now the law in going on at Eleventh Park, the theaters are open, and many other amusements await the women whose husbands have left and won't take them but who still wish to remain except the invitation to accompany another man—oh, no.

That freedom restores the right to go, and do as we please. That is the reason liberty is so sweet. Nine rooms, rooming—all of them young because they told the court so—were given. All the court could hardly get together to restore their freedom.

Got to be back to the store by 12:30. Kenneth told his attorney as soon as he stepped into the courthouse during the lunch hour yesterday. Rev. H. Kell, acting as special judge while Justice W. O. Latas is in St. Louis attending the meeting of the grand lodges. Masons had just put on his hat again.

A. L. Williams, foreman of the Sunbeam department, and Miss May Graham, of Little Rock, Ark., were quietly married Monday by Rev. Thomas S. Baetz. Only a few friends were present—Phoenix Sun.

The work of making a six mile narrow-gauge rail road from the famous High point to Hermits Basin, running along the rim of the Grand Canyon, is progressing to a point where now no scenic possibilities may either be judged, and it holds much greater promise of still further enhancing the wondrous views to be obtained at this alpinelike chasm.

The cornerstone of a beautiful and ample church for the West End Baptists of Phoenix for their friends was laid Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. J. Harvey Deere of the First Baptist church at Phoenix delivered the address.

The biggest flood of the season raged down the Little Colorado river last week and about the heaviest rain for many a day fell in St. Johns.

Sixty thousand acres of land surrounding the Southern Pacific station at Maricopa have been filed upon with the survey. It is said to be the intention of the Indians if their entries are allowed to post their financial interests and put down wells, establish lumbering plants, and plant grain and orchards.

The development work now being carried on at the Royal Flush mine, near Wallapi Springs, Mohave county, is showing up wonderfully well. Some of the assays from the recent work run as high as $1500 gold and more than $500 in silver.

Wickenburg has a newly organized fire department.

Arizona Historical Lodge No. 1 celebrated the 60th anniversary of the order at regular meeting Sept. 21st. After a business session, and the usual services, a short but most enjoyable program was rendered.

A second colony of 100 Russians is making ready to locate in the Salt River valley.

Suit for damages in the sum of $1,100 has been instituted against the Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix railroad company by George Stacy Gardner and George F. Gardner. The plaintiffs claim that on June 2, 1911, they shipped a $2,000 automobile over the lines of the defendant company and that it was damaged in the amount named.

to our old life in Texas, but the business could easily be sold. Mrs. Kennedy has fixed her place for freedom and wants her for the divorce. Her husband, Tom Kennedy, had deserted her she said.

What the Court Hears.

And to hear the divorce sentence following their trouble to each other:

"My old man was a peach if he'd left home alone," one said to another.

"My man had such an awful temper," confided another, as she turned and looked sad at the same time over her mistake in selecting a husband.

"That man of mine thought I ought to support him," came from another.

"My folks used to support us," a young woman of some 26, who lived with her husband two months, explained.

"He didn't have much cash, but each other in the first place—my husband and I," said an independent-looking wife of only a year.

"Well, John was a mighty good man until he fell in love with another woman," a woman of 35 answered.

"The other woman may think the same thing of me—now she does. He certainly was strong with the women."

These are the things the judges who hear divorce cases have to listen to every day. Still not one applicant in a hundred is refused a divorce.
